From Tuesday October 13, to Saturday October 17, 1747.

Dublin, October 8.

ON Tuesday the 6th Instant, the Parliament having met according to the Prorogation, his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant went in State to the House of Peers, and being seated on the Throne with the usual Ceremony, his Excellency sent for the Commons, and made a Speech to both Houses, who unanimously resolved upon humble and dutiful Addresses to his Majesty, which were this Day presented to his Excellency.

His Excellency William Earl of Harrington, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland, his Speech to both Houses of Parliament, at Dublin, on Tuesday the 6th Day of October 1747.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I Am come from the King's Presence by his Royal Command, to meet you here in Parliament: And I do it with so much the greater Satisfaction to myself, as I am honour'd with the Commission of declaring the Continuance of his Paternal Regard and Affection to a Dutiful and Loyal People.

You, with the rest of the King's Subjects, have had long and abundant Proof that the favourite and unvaried Maxim of his Majesty's Government, is to procure the Happiness of his Kingdoms. You cannot therefore doubt of his Majesty's Readiness to give the Royal Assent to such Laws as shall tend to promote your real Interest, and to increase your present Prosperity.

Though so many Months have passed since the total Suppression of the late horrid Rebellion, I cannot yet think it too late to congratulate you upon it. The King saw with Pleasure the Zeal which you then shewed for the Support of our happy Constitution, and your Indignation against that execrable Attempt to subvert it: And his Majesty depends upon your continuing constantly to exert the same good Conduct and Vigilance, which, under God, prevented the Communication of so dangerous an Infection to this Kingdom.

The Education of your poor Youth in the Protestant Charter-Schools, will be, with the Blessing of God, a happy Expedient towards eradicating, without Violence, those destructive Principles to our Religious and Civil Liberties, on which alone the Hopes of a Pretender, bred up in the Maxims of Slavery as well as Popery, are or can be founded.

You may depend upon my Zeal to protect and promote so useful an Institution; and to concur in every other proper Measure for the Preservation of your Domestick Tranquility, and for the Advancement of true Religion, Industry, Knowledge, and Virtue.

I need not exhort you to a particular Attention to your Linen Manufacture: You know the great Importance of it to this Nation: I only desire, that you will consider me as equally sensible of its Value, and equally inclined to promote its Progress and Success. And I hope you will soon find the beneficial Effects of the Act passed in the last Session of Parliament in Great Britain, continuing the Bounties on the Exportation of British and Irish coarse Linens.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I have nothing in Command from his Majesty to ask, but the usual and necessary Supplies for the Support of the Establishment; and I have order'd the proper Officers to prepare the several ſeveral Accounts and Eſtimates to be laid before you.

I have likewiſe given Directions, that an Account of the Sums, which have been taken up, and expended upon the Purchaſe of Arms for the Uſe of the Militia of this Kingdom, and of Cannon towards the Defence and Security of the Harbour of Corke, be laid before you: And I believe you will be ſatisfied, that thoſe Services have been performed with all poſſible Oeconomy.

With reſpect to the Harbour of Corke, ſome Difficulties having occurred, as to the Ground proper for the Erecting of Batteries, the Execution of that uſeful Deſign has been hitherto retarded: But you may be aſſured, that I ſhall not fail to do every Thing in my Power towards the Completion of it.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I am perſuaded we are met together with the ſame View and Intention of promoting his Majeſty's Service, and the Happineſs of his People. I do not preſs you to Unanimity, Temper, and Diſpatch in your Deliberations, becauſe your former Behaviour ſhews, that you need no Exhortations of that Kind.

For myſelf, I cannot but deſire that you will repoſe ſome Confidence in me; but no farther however, than you ſhall yourſelves judge from my Conduct, that it is for your own Sakes, and for the Publick Good, that I deſire it.

To the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty.

The humble Addreſs of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled, humbly beg Leave to congratulate your Majeſty on the entire Suppreſſion of the late unnatural Rebellion; raiſed in Favour of a Popiſh Pretender, and ſupported by a neighbouring Prince, the conſtant Enemy of the Liberties of Europe.

Our juſt Indignation cannot be ſufficiently expreſſed againſt thoſe, who have endeavour'd to ſubvert our happy Conſtitution, and introduce Popery, with its neceſſary Attendant Arbitrary Power, inſtead of that True Religion, and thoſe Liberties, which we enjoy under a King, whoſe diſtinguiſhed Glory it is ever to have kept united the Freedom of the Subject with the Royalty of the Sovereign; the peculiar Happineſs of theſe Kingdoms.

We ſhould be as much wanting to our Intereſt, as our moſt indiſpenſible Duty, if we omitted any Opportunity of giving your Majeſty the ſtrongeſt Aſſurances, that we conſider the Support of your ſacred Perſon and Government, and the Succeſſion in your Royal Houſe, as the laſting Security, under God, of our Civil and Religious Rights: Which ineſtimable Bleſſings we are unanimouſly reſolved, as far as in us lies, to tranſmit to our lateſt Poſterity.

We muſt ever with Gratitude ackowledge the Royal Bounty and Protection given to the Proteſtant Charter-Schools of this Kingdom; and we cannot but hope, that this wiſe Inſtitution, by reſcuing many from the Miſeries of Sloth and Idleneſs, will be an effectual Means of promoting among us the Bleſſings of Labour and Induſtry; and by a careful Education of the Youth in the true Principles of the Proteſtant Religion, and juſt Notions of their Civil Liberties, muſt utterly defeat the vain Hopes of an abjured Pretender, bred up in the Maxims of Popery and Tyranny.

As we are firmly perſuaded, that Promoting the Proſperity of your People is a Part of our Duty the moſt acceptable to your Majeſty, we ſhall continue our utmoſt Endeavours to improve and extend the Linen Manufacture, the great Importance of which has been long experienced in this Kingdom.

We are truly ſenſible of your Majeſty's great Attention to the Welfare of this Nation, in committing the Government thereof to his Excellency the Earl of Harrington; whoſe eminent Virtues and Abilities have diſtinguiſhed him in Stations of the higheſt Truſt, and whoſe firm Attachment to your Royal Perſon and Family muſt ſtrongly induce us to render his Adminiſtration eaſy, by our Unanimity and Diſpatch in all our Deliberations.

En. Sterne, Cler. Parliamentor.

His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Anſwer.

My Lords,

I Will forthwith tranſmit this Dutiful and Loyal Addreſs to be laid before his Majeſty.

To the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty.

The humble Addreſs of the Knights, Citizens and Burgeſſes in Parliament aſſembled.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, the Commons of Ireland in Parliament aſſembled, beg Leave to approach your ſacred Perſon, to expreſs, in the moſt humble Manner, our juſt Senſe of the many Bleſſings we enjoy under your Majeſty's moſt mild and gracious Government, by the entire Poſſeſſion of all our Civil and Religious Liberties; a Happineſs peculiarly known to your Majeſty's Subjects.

The

The Paternal Affection which your Majeſty has always ſhewn to us, fills our Minds with the ſtrongeſt Senſe of Duty and Loyalty; and particularly the recent Inſtance we have of your Majeſty's tender Concern for our Intereſts, in appointing the Earl of Harrington Governor of this Kingdom, who has ſo eminently diſtinguiſhed himſelf in every Station, and by all his Actions given the higheſt Proofs of his ſteady Attachment to your Majeſty's Illuſtrious Family, Perſon and Government.

We ſaw with Horror the pernicious Effects of a blind Zeal and Popiſh Bigotry among ſeveral of your Majeſty's Subjects in the late unnatural Rebellion; who, by the Aſſiſtance of a Foreign Enemy, (ever jealous of your Majeſty's Glory, and the Proſperity of your Subjects) endeavoured to ſubvert our happy Conſtitution, to introduce a Popiſh Pretender to your Majeſty's Crown, and thereby, at once, to deprive us of all that is or can be dear and valuable to us, as Men and Proteſtants.

Your Majeſty's Wiſdom and Reſolution, in ſuppreſſing that horrid Attempt, were not more conſpicuous than your Clemency in puniſhing the miſguided Abettors of it: Thus glorioufly exerciſing the greateſt and moſt amiable Qualities of an Illuſtrious Prince.

Permit us, Sir, on this Occaſion, with Hearts full of Joy and Gratitude, to return your Majeſty our moſt unfeigned Thanks for our great Deliverance, in which your Majeſty's Son, his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, had ſo great a Share, and to whoſe Courage and Conduct theſe Nations muſt be for ever indebted.

And we aſſure your Majeſty we ſhall chearfully and unanimouſly grant Supplies to ſupport your Majeſty's Government with Honour; and uſe all proper Methods to prevent the further Growth of Popery amongſt us, and zealouſly enter into every Meaſure that ſhall be neceſſary to defend your Majeſty's juſt Title to the Crown, and the Proteſtant Succeſſion in your Royal Houſe, on which depend the Safety and Proſperity of theſe Kingdoms.

E. Sterling, H. Alcock, } Cler. Dom. Com.

His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Anſwer.

I Will take the firſt Opportunity to tranſmit this Dutiful and Loyal Addreſs to His Majeſty.

To his Excellency William Earl of Harrington, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland.

The humble Addreſs of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

WE the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled, beg Leave to return our moſt hearty Thanks to your Excellency for your Speech delivered from the Throne to both Houſes of Parliament: And at the ſame Time to expreſs our ſincere Congratulations on your Excellency's happy Arrival in this Kingdom.

We have received innumerable Proofs of his Majeſty's Paternal Regard and Affection to his Subjects of Ireland; but none more acceptable, than his committing the Government of it to your Excellency: From whoſe approved Abilities and Wiſdom, we may juſtly promiſe to ourſelves every Advantage.

His Majeſty's gracious Acceptance of our Zeal for the Support of his Government, during the late horrid Attempt to ſubvert it, fills us with unſpeakable Satisfaction: And your Excellency may on all Occaſions depend upon our ſteady Adherence to the ſame Principles by which we were then animated, and to which we are bound by the ſtrongeſt Ties of Intereſt, Duty and Gratitude.

Your Excellency has ſhewn your real Concern for our Welfare, in recommending to our Care the Inſtitution for Educating of Popiſh Children in the Proteſtant Charter-Schools: Which, we hope, may, in Time, with the Bleſſing of God, bring them under the Influence of true Religion, and the Habits of Induſtry, Order, and Sobriety. Perſuaſive and gentle Applications are the Means we are moſt deſirous to employ towards reclaiming thoſe unhappy People; and we ſhall proceed in them with the greater Confidence, ſince they have received your Excellency's Approbation.

Our immediate Intereſt calls upon us to promote with all poſſible Care the Linen Manufacture: And your Excellency has convinced us of your affectionate Regard to our Happineſs, by propoſing thoſe Things only to our Conſideration, on which our own Proſperity depends. We already feel the beneficial Effects of the Bounty lately continued by Great Britain to that valuable Branch of our Trade; and we have a full and juſt Senſe of the early and effectual Proof, that your Excellency on that Occaſion gave of your favourable Attention to it.

Unanimity, Temper and Diſpatch in our Deliberations are the natural Reſult of thoſe Sentiments of Loyalty, which we have conſtantly profeſſed to the beſt of Kings. And the Dignity and Weight of your Excellency's Character, the Solidity of your Judgment, your Truth, Candour, and Integrity, Qualities univerſally known and acknowledged; always the Objects of our Eſteem, and now the Grounds of our Confidence, will prove additional Motives and Aſſiſtances to the Endeavours we ſhall on our Part ſtrenuouſly exert for the promoting the true Service of his Majeſty, the Security and Happineſs of his People, and the Eaſe and Honour of your Excellency's Government.

En. Sterne, Cler. Parliamentor.

His

His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Anſwer.

My Lords,

I Return your Lordſhips Thanks for this very obliging and affectionate Addreſs, and you may be aſſured, that it ſhall be my conſtant Endeavour to convince you of the Value I ſet upon your Eſteem, by my Attention to promote the Welfare and Happineſs of this Kingdom.

To his Excellency William Earl of Harrington, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland.

The humble Addreſs of the Knights, Citizens and Burgeſſes in Parliament aſſembled.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

WE his Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Ireland in Parliament aſſembled, return your Excellency our humble Thanks for your excellent Speech from the Throne.

The long and abundant Proofs we, with the reſt of his Majeſty's Subjects, have already had, of his Majeſty's paternal Care, leaves us no Room to doubt of the Continuance of his Royal Protection; and we cannot but eſteem it as a particular Inſtance of his Majeſty's Regard for this Kingdom, that he has at this Time appointed for its Governor a Perſon ſo eminently diſtinguiſhed, as well for his early Experience in military Affairs, as for his great Integrity and known Abilities in Poſts of the higheſt Truſt and Dignity.

The dreadful Calamities, which Popery has already brought upon this Country, make us, in a peculiar Manner, rejoice at the total Suppreſſion of the late horrid Rebellion, in Favour of a popiſh and abjured Pretender; and will always unite us in a ſteady Adherence to a Prince, by whoſe Royal Houſe our Religion and Liberties have been ſo effectually ſecured.

We cannot have a more convincing Proof of your Excellency's Attention to the Good of this Kingdom, than your recommending to our Care the Proteſtant Charter-Schools, and Linen Manufacture, which muſt neceſſarily meet with Succeſs, as your Excellency has ſo ſtrongly taken them under your Protection.

The inviolable Attachment your Excellency has always ſo remarkably ſhewn to his Majeſty's Perſon and Government, cannot fail of creating in us the higheſt Confidence: And we beg Leave to aſſure you, that nothing ſhall be wanting, on our Part, to expreſs our Duty to his Majeſty, by the Regard we ſhall ſhew for the Eaſe and Honour of your Excellency's Adminiſtration.

E. Sterling,
H. Alcock, } Cler. Dom. Com.

His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Anſwer.

I Am extreamly obliged to the Houſe of Commons for the good Opinion of me, which they are pleaſed to expreſs in this very affectionate Addreſs, and you will, I hope, be perſuaded of my very ſincere Deſire to merit the Continuance of it, by making the Intereſts of this Kingdom the Objects of my utmoſt Care and Attention.

Liege, October 20, N. S. We do not hear that the French Troops are gone into Winter Quarters, but it is daily expected, their Cover'd Waggons having been ſent to Bruſſels, and every other Preparation made, which plainly ſhews, that they only wait to watch the Motions of the Allied Army. The Imperialiſts and Hanoverians ſtill remain encamped hereabouts.

Hague, October 24, N. S. His Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland arrived here early on Sunday Morning, and propoſes returning to the Army as ſoon as the Winter Quarters are regulated, which, it is imagined, may be in a very few Days. The Morning that his Royal Highneſs the Duke left Breda, the Corps of Troops, which the Enemy had encamp'd at Wyneghem, under M. Lowendahl, were retired towards Antwerp, and the advanced Poſts of the Allied Army attacked their Rear, but no conſiderable Advantage was gain'd, and only a few Priſoners taken. We have Advice here, that ſome of the Enemy's Troops are filing off towards Dutch Flanders. The Britiſh Troops under the Orders of General Ligonier, are to march to the Lines of Terheyde, behind which it is ſuppoſed they will encamp To-morrow. Prince Frederick of Heſſe Caſſel and Marſhal Bathiani are expected here this Evening or To-morrow Morning. Major General Thierry, who was ſent to defend the Forts upon the Scheld, is lately arrived here upon his Parole.
